

Computer Support Site-Technical Problems

Contributed by Duty Manager
Wednesday, 06 August 2008
Last Updated Monday, 29 December 2008

Network TP's Computer Support website is temporarily unavailable.

We were alerted to a problem within the Network TP Computer Support website and as such are investigating the issue. During this time, the Computer Support website is offline.

The forum is available as usual and is not affected by this issue.

Users of Firefox may get displayed a warning from google about the site having malware this is related to the serious error the site has experienced. NetworkTP has never and will never knowingly distribute harmful software.

We apologise for this inconvenience and are working to get the website online as soon as possible.